-They have a mystery in Philadelphia. Blood has been found on the pavement, and traced from a house in Union screet, through Lombard and Perry, and into Pine street, to the door of an 'ex-Alderman. Whereapon there has been excitement and whispering and laying together of policemen's heads.

-The London correspondent of The Liverpool Albion has some curious statements with regard to the alleged meanness of H. R. H. Prince Albert, especially toward artists:

"Growing years are reputed to be accompanied with increasing partiality for pursuits which first led to Brougham christening him Archime ies, when the Lord Harry was asked if the scientific Albert wasn't Lord Harry was asked if the scientific Albert wasn't an adopt at the serve. In matters of art these pennious proclivities are developed in a style unpleasingly inconsistent with the Medici-like credit be is so anxious to keep up, and does keep up with the public, though the profession know differently, to their cost; for a 'commission' is a subject not of rejoicing and gratulation, but of conductore and commisseration with all brethren of the brush, so far as the direct sterling sends of the restronger is concerned. results of the patronage is concerned to the artist shonored. The shrewdest and most close-fisted deale that ever drove bargain in these things might take a lesson from the accomplished F. M. Our Teutonic Macconas appraises the market valve of every element in his pictoral orders just as certain dandies about town is his pictorial orders just as certain dancies about town used to do in the last generation when they got clothes for next to nothing, because their wearing of them advertised the tailors. Any Scheffer got twentyfold more from huxtering old Louis Phillipe, who well knew the value of a penny, for he had often to earn one before he could buy a roll to break his first, than any twenty he could buy a roll to break his first, than any twenty f our artists, Landseer and all his Noah's ark it have derived from our court, which certainly does no hate beetry and bainting, as certain of our German regalties boasted of doing, but indulges the love there by the most adroitly close-shaving contrivances."

We have no change whatever to notice in money. The supply continues abundant at 526 P cent on paper, and 4 @ 6 P cent on demand. Some of the acceptances are being taken up by the makers at even less than 5 P cent. Books for subscription to $100,000 of the capital of the Union Bank of Missouri, will be opened at the Bank of the State of New-York on the 1st of June. We have received a copy of the semi-monthly circular of Eugene Thompson, showing the latest prices of stocks, and imparting much other fin encial information. Copies may be had gratuitously at his office, No 41 Pine street. The Merchants' Bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of 34 P cent, payable on the 1st of June. Mr. F. A. The Bank statement is unexpectedly favorable in the specie reserve, which shows a falling off of only $300,000. The receipts from neighboring cities have been larger than was anticipated, and these continue to considerable extent to-day. The loan line shows a very regular movement. The

Of the amount advertised for, $187,100 was awarded at from 1.77 to 4 per cent, and the balance, $69,000

The Cincinnati Gazette of Saturday thus notices the Money market of that city:

Currency was caree in some quarters, but the discount houses generally were able to take all the acceptable paper offered, and borrowers experienced no difficulty in negotiating leans at 10 × 12 ½ cent. There is a heavy volume of business going forward for the season in the produce trade, and there is more than the usual demand for currency at present. Checking on several houses was pretty brisk, causing a temporary closeness with a portion of the bankers, but the general market, as remarked, was comfortably supplied. Eastern exchange is in better supply, and there being no improvement in the demand, the market is dull, and prices are heavy. The buying rate fill back with most of the dealers to 7 prem.; 49 was paid only to customers, and that figure was realized in but few cases. The Provision trade are furnishing a good deal of sight on Baltimore, New York, and Philadelphia. Bankers Provision trede are furnishing a good deal of sight on Baltimore, New-York, and Philadelphia. Bankers' checks are still quoted at 1 prem.; but they were to be had in some cases at 45. New-Orleans sight is dull at 1 dis. buying, and 1 2 1 prem. selling. Transactions in time bills are light, and prices unchanged."

A Milwankee journal speaking of the crops, says: "We are informed by gentlemen who have traveled over large portions of the State, that all sorts of crops are in a better condition than ever before known a over large portions of the State, that all sorts of crops are in a better condition than ever before known at this season of the year, and that nearly double the amount of ground is under critivation, over that of last year, and that farmers are in the best of spirits, in prospect of an abundant harvest. The elements seem to have combined their quadrites to render the labor of farmers productive in the highest degree. The heat has been sufficient to thoroughly quicken vegetation, and no long spells of rainy weather have intervened, that would cause the seed to rot in the ground, but most opportune and refreshing showers have kept the earth in the best condition. The rapidity of germination under such circumstances in this country is astonishing. A such circumstances in this country is astonishing. A gentleman, who has 30 acres of Spring Wheat growing near the city, informs us that the blades were above the ground in four days after the seed was sown. Compared with other sections of the country Wisconsin stands to-day in a most encouraging position, in regard to agricultural prospects."

THE FRIENDS YEARLY MEETING. The business meeting of the Society commenced yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at Hester-street Meeting House. Our reporter found the men's meeting in session in the busement of the house—an apartment damp, dark, and dingy in the extreme—wretchedly damp, dark, and unity in the extreme western and and in its acoustic qualities, and in every other way, to the purposes of a large assembly. It is a little singular that a society so wealthy as the Friends, and so liberal in the expenditure of their wealth for the promotion of their personal comfort, should be content with such miserable accommodations for their Yearly The meeting was large, the country members being

The meeting was large, the country members being in attendance in large numbers, and the Clerk, Mr. George T. Trimble of this city, was at the deek.

The first business at the opening of the meeting was the calling the names of the representatives, four in number, from each of the Quarterly Meetings, nearly ail of whom respected. These representatives are sent from each of the Quarterly Meetings, in charge of the reports annually prepared for the Yearly Meeting; and they are charged, also, with the custody of the numbers, and other documents sent down from the Yearly Meeting to its subordinates. They have no power at the meeting beyond that of the members at large, except that they nominate the Clerk for the year.

OFFICIAL SWEARING IN THE MAYOR'S OFFICE .-Mayor Wood has put a new construction, one which e conceives to be the correct one, upon the provisions of the chanter of 1857, relating to the swearing of subofficials futo office. He that's all of the appointees should be sworn in before him, and, accordingly, on Saturday last, sent orders to the various City Departments, requiring all who have not formally taken outh 1+fere him, to appear and do so; in default of which be would refuse to countersign warrants for their paytrent. A number of the Croton people appeared at the Masor's Office, yesterday, and were sworn, for mere master of form, their superiors in that Department thinking it scarcely worth the while to object to such an easy operation, though all their officials are required to give outh semi-monthly to the correctness of the bills which they certify.

THE PRIZE RING .- A prize fight between two sporting men, named George King and John Woods, has been talked of for some time. A sort of trial match between them was agreed upon, which was to have come off yesterday. This was simply for $100 a side, and was intended but as a trial of the men to see if they were "game 'enough to warrant their being pitted for a larger sum. But little time has been allowed the men for training, and consequently neither was expected to be in proper condition. Nevertheless, all pugilistic individuals were on the alert to see the fight, and on Sunday night there was great excitement at their respective headquarters. Euch had chartered a small steamboat to be in readiness to take their friends to such place on the river as they might select for this fight. The Woods party had engaged the steamer Rattler, and at about I o'clock on Monday morning she left ber dock, and proceeded up the North River, having between 200 and 400 persons on board.

It was understood that the fight would take place in Jersey, but the exact locality was not made known. King's boat, the J. C. Stevens, was not so fortunate in regard to her clearance from port. The preparations for the fight had got noised about among the police, and early in the evening the Captains of the various Wards were telegraphed to from Headquarters, and warned to be on the alert to arrest the principals. Accordingly, when King's friends went to look for the J. C. Stevens, at the foot of Christopher street, they found a large force of policemen in charge of her. It was then rumored that King would go up to the ground in a carriage. A large number of persons crosed the river and wended their wearisome way, either on foot or in carriages, along the shore toward the Palisades, where one or two matches have previonely been fought. A majority of the King party, however, went up the river in the steamer Corning which was subsequently engaged for the occasion. The Rattler, with Wood on board, arrived at the proper place about daylight, but of course there was no eign of King.

They waited patiently, beating about the river, till about 6 o'clock, when the Corning was discovered coming up the river. When she came alongside it was discovered that King was not on board. It was subsequently ascertained that he had been arrested by Capt. Seaman of the Fourth Ward, and locked up. This fact not being known on board the Rattler, they resolved to proceed to the ground, pitch the ring, and await till 8 o'clock-the men being required to be in le rieg between the hours of 5 and 8 o'clock, or forfeit the buttle-money. The Cloisters, opposite the village of Yorkers, was the spot selected, and both boats were soon lying at the dock there. Climbing to the top of the Palisades, the ring was soon pitched in a private garden, much to the disgust of the owner thereof. Tile crowd, however, was altogether too rough to render remone trance of any avail, and the proprietor of the cucumbers, cabbages, and other marketable produce, was forced to see his favorite vegetables trampled under foot by the crowd Eighto'clock having arrived, and no King appearing, Woods was declared entitled to the battle-money and the fight. But the crowd had come to see a prize fight and a fight they were bound to have. So a purse of $52 was made up, and two boys maned Jimmy Clark and Jimmy Elliott, expressed their desire to pummel each other for that sum, the winner of the fight to have the money.

Of course seconds, bo tle-holders, and referees were instantly found, and the boys stripped for the fight. These lads were each about seventeen years of age, and professed to have considerable skill in prize-lighting; or at least the hight of their ambition seems to be to attain the enviable reputation of pugilists. Some five hundred men stood by, and for upward of an hour looked on and encouraged this brutal transaction. The more brutal and bloody it became, the greater was their satisfaction. The boys were both plucky, but it was soon evident that Clark had the best of it-he receiving but little punishment, while his blows told powerfully upon Elliett. Thirty rounds were fought in one hour and five mirutes, when Elliott was no longer able to come to time. During the last few rounds he presented most horrible appearance, his eyes, lips, cheeks, and month being terribly swollen, and as he came to the scratch he reeled and staggered about like a drunken person. When this beastly exhibition was concluded, his seconds were obliged to carry him from the field on their shoulders. The seambouts having run away, the crowd were obliged to cross the river in small boats and return to the city by the Hudson River Railroad.

> PRINCE DE JOINVILLE.-This distinguished individual yesterday afternoon paid a visit to Police Headquarters, and was received and shown through the ostablishment by Inspector Dilks. The Prince spent considerable time examining the "Rognes' Gallery," and thought it an excellent device for detecting rogues. He was also much interested in the police telegraph arrangements and thoroughly examined all the appointments. The new instruments and apparatus recently erected by Superintendent Robinson, are of very elegant finish, and constructed with such care that they very rarely get out of order. After leaving Headquarters the Prince, in company with Inspector Dilks and Police Surgeon Mott, paid a visit to the Seventeenth Ward Station-House, where he was received and entertained by Capt. Leonard.

THE MURDER OF MR. COPPER .-- Coroner Jackman vesterday concluded the inquest on the body of John Copper, the Weehawken ferry master, who was fatally stabbed on the 20th inst., while engaged in keeping the peace among a parcel of rowdies. The particulars of the affray have been already published in THE TRIBUNE. The evidence went to show that the fatal blow was inflicted by Charles, alias Patrick Dowdell. The jury rendered the following verdict: "That deceased came to his death from stabs inflicted at the hards of Charles, alias Patrick Dowdell, and George McDonnell, on the 20th of May, 1860, and the jury exonerate Nathaniel Cox from any participation in the killing." Cox was thereupon discharged from custody. The other two are confined in Bergen jail, and their trial will be had in New-Jersey.

TRIAL OF STRAM FIRE-ENGINES IN THE PARK .- YOU terday afternoon, a trial of steam fire-engines took place in the City-Hall Park, in the presence of many bousands of citizens. The large locomotive belonging to the Exempt Framen; Guardian, No. 29; Valley Forge, No. 46, and No. 38, each pumped a continuous stream of water to distances varying from about 180 feet to 300 feet, at an angle of 45 degrees. They were tried with nezzles of various sizes. No doubt was left in the minds of any as to the superiority of the steam over the ordinary fire-engines in a case of imminent danger to property by fire. Judging by the easy manner in which the multitude were frequently dispersed vesterday afternoon, one of these instruments would be an excellent weapon either of assault or of defense in case of a riot.

LETTER FROM A MEDICAL STUDENT.

About three years since, while riding a favorite child on my left foot; I was conscious of something auddenly giving way directly behind the knee joint; in a few days a small pulsating tumor or swelling appeared directly over the course of the great artery, as it passes down the leg. This, my slight anatomical and surgical knowledge induced me to fear, was an aneurism or rupture of its inner coat, and that I should consequently become the subject of a dangerous surgical operation. On consulting a surgical friend, he assured me that such was the case, and that I was the subject of a "Popliteal Aneurism," which would undoubtedly require the Bunterian operation. Not being willing to act on this advice, and being familiar through the pages of The Scalpel with the efforts of its editor in the cause of conservative surgery, I consulted Dr. Dixon: he confirmed the opinion of my friend, but consoled me with the assurance that my case was severy way favorable for a cure by pressure, and that he should confidently anticipate a cure by pressure, and that he should confidently anticipate a cure by that process, with very little inconvenience, and no danger winatever. On inquiring if there was any immediate danger, he replied that if it did not much increase, if might be deferred for several months. I unfortunately stretched this license for over two years, when its rapid increase to the size of a large hen's egg compelled me to submit to treatment. Finding no vacancy in Dr. Dixon's Hospital, I hired a private room in the New-York Hospital, on Dr. Dixon's assurance that the treatment by pressure sould be quite as well carried out there by the surreoms as by himself. A consultation was beld by the Surjeal Staff of the Hospital, and they very kindly assented to my wishes to try pressure. During that three weeks of my stay severs it tempts were made to complete was not used. As I had been informed by Dr. D. that he relied exclusively on that instrument, I are directly by rollers and handages, ad [Advertisement].
LETTER FROM A MEDICAL STUDENT. the beautiful monograph of O'Brien Bellinghan during the progress of my cure, and perceiving that it rests upon an unchangable law of nazice, I hope all who require this inestimable service, which I am told is applicable to many other discass of the arteries, will inform themselves of its merits. During the progress of up own case, a relative of the family with whom I bearded was taken to one of our city hospitals, and for the same disease the lemonal artery was tied and ulterated, and again tied higher up by a second operation, the potient finally intractionally recovering, after an attack of delition and erysipelia, which live was then prevalent at that institution. Never shall I orget the read with which IP. D. dissuaded me from the operation by the kaife and lizature, and the kind attention manifested during the progress of the cure. I publist this letter as equally due to that gentleman and the cause of conservative surgery and broad humanity, so moving ad fearlessly advocated in his original and instructive Jurial.
